Vineyard & Flavor

Albon clone Grenache was planted in 2013 providing low yields and premium fruit qualities.

Winemaking

De-stemmed fruit placed in open top stainless-steel fermenters with temperature control for just a few hours creating a light color with great acidity for the Rose. Once pressed out the juice is returned to a stainless-steel tank for a long cool fermentation retaining the full flavor of Grenache.

When fermentation is complete the wine is stored in neutral oak barrels creating a vessel to store for a few months before bottling without imparting any oak flavor.
